Wednesday, 28 June 2016 Betternet VPN for Mac v8.3.5 So you've read all about the new Betternet VPN for Mac, free trial, premium plus, mobile, etc. Well, they're now officially out and this is a free trial of all of them. So far, so good. In a previous article, I reviewed the free version and shared some notes on it. If you're a little wary of VPNs, this is a great one to try. However, if you'd like to make sure that you're not about to invest any money into something that's just going to end up on your credit card, I highly recommend that you do read through the notes from my previous article on it. These will be useful to you if you do decide to go with it. This time around, I'm reviewing the premium version - the premium version includes all of the features of the free version, plus some extras. I'm using the premium version for the time being, because I've used it for a few weeks, and I've come away with a positive impression of it. However, the free version is also great, so if you'd like to try it, you can still do that with this review. If you already have a Betternet VPN for Mac subscription, you'll be able to find the link for downloading here. I've also included a link to the official Betternet VPN for Mac website here. If you're here for the review, then you'll be familiar with the interface of the free version, but let's quickly recap just in case. If you are a US citizen (or a country in the US's visa waiver list) then you can use the US version of Betternet. There are no restrictions on who you can connect with. However, if you are from any other country, you'll need to use the UK version. There are three membership plans for Betternet. You can join for free, you can pay $7.95 a month for premium, or you can pay $19.95 a month for premium plus. We'll be focusing on the premium plus and free membership here. The free version is available to anyone, regardless of their nationality. However, the premium version is only available to US citizens (and to those from US friendly countries). The $7.95/month membership is available to anyone, and the $19.95/month membership 82157476af
